Question Part

Dear Principle

Hi, I think your idea on banning homework is good. I Think homework is a lot of work for kid's, they already have a'lot to do in school why give them more for their house. this really makes students stress out alot and gives them no time for themselves.

Most students hate homework but get forced to do it by ther parents. It's not easy to study at home, when you have all of youre electronics and toy's to play with. Although working and going to school benefits you for your career. It is unhealthy to be sat at home with a pen and paper just writing.

I don't think homework is that useful as people think it is because kid's need to be out in the park doing exercise and having fun. Homework makes you sad and not want to do anything. I don't think homework should be banned, I think that there should be less given out to students.

A lot of student's get homework and they dont complete it or just forget about it. This is bad because then students get left behind with ~~infmon~~ topics in school. This means that student's are going to have to ~~work~~ work without teachers help until he catches up with the work.

Yours sincerly.

Question Part

This random Saturday morning I got a phone call from my cousin Jack. He told me that he wanted to go ~~to~~ exploring in the woods. I was down to go, but had no idea where we were going. He asked if I would want to go for exercise or to find new things. I told him I wanted to explore and experience something different. He then said that we were going in his 4X4 off roading car. I was so exited and ready to go, I couldnt wait for Jack to come to my house. He finally came picked me up and we were on the road's heading towards the woods. Once we were there we unloaded the car with all our gear. In the first couple hour's we were alright finding new things, seeing tree's and ~~more~~ insects that ive never seen before. We ran into this massive cave. We were debating wether to go in or not, even tho we were'nt prepared to be in the dark. It was a ~~g~~massive cave. ~~[illegible]~~ ~~An~~ Jack walked into the cave like nothing whiles I followed behind frightless. ~~[illegible]~~ We had never seen anything like what we saw inside the cave. It was filled with old ancient pictures and drawing's, Jack loved it and he didn't want to leave. We finally agreed on heading back to the car. ~~[illegible]~~ Whilst walkeing we couldn't find the entrance we came in through. We didn't think nothing of it because we ~~[illegible]~~ only walked like 10 minutes into the ~~tunnel~~ cave. little did we know we were going deeper and deeper into the cave. It was clear that time was running out, so we had to try something different. We tried to find our own traces of footsteps so we could find the way out but we couldn't. We had little amount of energy from walking so much we didn't know what to do. Jack then came up with an amazing Idea. Jack had no signal on his phone to call anyone but he had a GPS on his car. Jack used a big stick to attach his phone to, he then stuck his phone out the slightest thin hole on the roof of the cave. the then got signal tried to connect it to the GPS and it worked. We carefully got out safely and drove home.
